

Meet Gladys...

Gladys was previously referred to ABLE for rehabilitation services. As a person with disabilities, she felt discouraged when she was unable to find gainful employment. She worried about supporting her children and being financially stable on her own. She shared that her children are her motivation in life. They are the reasons she has the strength to search for solutions.

In 2016, Gladys found employment with ABLE SEAS - an extension of ABLE's Return-To-Work programme. She went through accounting training from industry experts. With a stable job on hand, she feels happy that she is useful and is able to contribute to society just like anyone else. Gladys gained confidence and independence working at ABLE SEAS and is often loud and jovial as described by her colleagues. She hopes to inspire others in similar situations as her to persevere and looks for ways to upgrade yourself.
